'Greatest show on Earth' opens in London town

LONDON—Thousands of bells rang out across Britain as the countdown to the 2012 Olympics reached its finale with a colorful opening ceremony—a three-hour spectacle—abundant of 17 days of competitions that will create heroes, fire national pride and shatter dreams.

Some 10,000 athletes from more than 200 countries will chase the thrill of victory or the despair of defeat as they fight for a total of 302 medals in 34 events during the opening extravaganza.

US raps Sino garrison plan

Tiniest man in PH team bears heaviest burden

THE UNITED STATES has criticized Chinese plans for a military garrison on an island in the contested West Philippine Sea (South China Sea) and said all claimants should resolve their disputes through diplomacy.

China on Thursday declared a new municipality on tiny Woody Island in the Prata Islands claimed by Vietnam, a move protested by Hanoi and Manila.

China has also sent a large fleet of fishing vessels to the Spratly and the Spratly archipelago in the middle of West Philippine Sea to show its economic dominance in the southern waters.

Thirty boats from the fleet of 30 fishing vessels had moved close to the Philippine border at Pagasa Island, causing enough alarm that Manila's Rep. Rodolfo Benero, formerly chief of staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, suggested the Philippines ask the United Nations for a peacekeeping force to prevent armed confrontation between Manila and Beijing over their conflicting claims in the West Philippine Sea.

But Balerio and the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) yesterday rejected the suggestion of Benero, chief of the House defense committee, preferring to stick to the Aquino administration's diplomatic, political and legal track in finding a solution to the territorial APPOINTING an outsider Chief Justice would be like naming a civilian, instead of a general, to lead an army to war, according to Associate Justice Ma. Lourdes Sereno, President Aquino's first appointee to the Supreme Court.

Sereno also dismissed suggestions that the high court was weakened by bitter divisions following the impeachment and removal of Chief Justice Renato Corona, such that this would require the appointment of a "healing" Chief Justice.

"What is there to heal? There is nothing to fix," she bluntly told the Judicial and Bar Council (JBC) panel of interviewers that was taking her measure as one of the aspirants for the post vacated by Corona.

LONDON—Of the 11 Filipinos writing action in the 2012 Olympic Games, the tiniest man also carries the heaviest burden.

Mark Anthony Barriga, the lone boxer in the delegation, weighs only 48 kilograms (107.4 lbs.), placing him in the light flyweight division of the boxing competitions here.

Boxing had been the Philippines' only source of hope in previous Olympic delegations, but that expectation appeared to be almost beyond reach with only one Filipino fighter qualifying for the Olympics.

Arriving recently from Cardiff in Wales where he trained for three weeks, Barriga is in London with enough confidence and experience to raise the expectations of his coach, Noel Velasco, and broad-based support boxing official.

Soldiers 'refused to leave each other'

ZAMBOANGA CITY—"They stuck together and refused to leave each other."

That and not operational lapses, according to the military, was the reason why many soldiers were killed or wounded in a clash with Abu Sayyaf leaders in Basilan province on Thursday.

Col. Rauloyle Calanguiang, spokesperson for the military's Western Mindanao Command, said 10 SMC soldiers were killed and 17 others were wounded in daytime clashes with the bandits in Sumail town in Basilan.

It was the largest military loss since 19 soldiers were killed in clashes with Moro Islamic Liberation Front guerrillas in Ali Baraka, Basilan, in October last year.

In August 2009, 23 soldiers died in the military's worst loss in a single engagement with Abu Sayyaf leaders, also in Basilan.

GMA gunning for 2nd House term

By Christian F. Espinosa and Benito Dejesa, Inquirer Correspondents

DESPITE her illness and a string of criminal cases against her, former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo will seek a second consecutive term as Pampanga representative in next year's midterm elections.

"We will win," Arroyo's spokespersons told the Inquirer in Pampanga, referring to a campaign she had with Arroyo on Thursday the day the Pampanga representative posted bail of P1 million for her company bonds.

Arroyo failed to reach where she intended to Pampanga and met with supporters in Pampanga, including two days after the vote was held from her hospital quarters.

"I can do more," she said to supporters in support of her bid to run for Pampanga's 1st congressional district in 2013.

Arroyo's spokespersons said the former president is still recovering from her illness and is not yet fit to campaign. She is currently in the morning, fresh from a visit to an alternative medicine center in Pampanga City and the rest of her recovery. NO ARREST warrant was issued by the Sandiganbayan against former President and Sen. Pangloss Arroyo for allegedly violating the Anti-Graft Law.

Instead, the anti-graft court's first division granted Arroyo's request to suspend hearings until the Office of the Ombudsman had decided on her appeal to dismiss the charges against her.

Justice Antonio Enin Jr. said, "The Ombudsman has decided on her appeal to dismiss the charges against her."

P-Noy OKs National Artist Award for FPJ

PRESTIGE Aguirre has outlined a 20th-anniversary celebration for the late movie actor King Francisco "Din" A. National Artist, in a show of tribute to his family to wrap the award.

"Pursuant to the authority vested in me by law, I, Rodrigo S. Aguirre III, President of the Philippines, do hereby confer the distinction of National Artist (posthumous) as conferred in Proclamation No. 1865 dated May 23, 2006," Mr. Aguirre said in Proclamation No. 4155 dated July 26.

First President of the Philippines posthumously conferred the National Artist Award on Din in May 2006, but his family refused to accept the honor in protest of P-Noy's loss to Arroyo in the bitterly-contested May 2010 presidential election.

He suffered a massive stroke and died in December 2004. P-Noy's widow actress Imelda Staunton, arrived Arroyo's wedding ceremony.

"It's a confirmation because the National Artist Award had been previously conferred on the late FPJ," and deputy presidential spokesperson Miguel Valdey.

Mr. S. Aguirre took office in June

2010, P-Noy and his daughter, Mary Grace De Los Angeles, now chief of the Movie and Television Review and Classification Board, expressed the hope that they could finally receive the award.

DENR asks military to lead fight vs illegal loggers

By Of Yo

ENVIRONMENT Secretary Pabon wants to utilize the military against illegal loggers in the country, citing the increasing danger to human beings, some 20 of whom have been killed in the last 10 years.

"We are requesting that illegal logging operations in the Davao and Cagayan regions be considered military operations because we believe it's not just an issue of illegal logging," Pabon said in a briefing on Thursday. He said he asked Defense Secretary Voltaire Garcia during President Aquino's state of the Nation Address (SNA) on July 23 to provide military support to depleted forest rangers, whose job includes monitoring illegal logging activities. "During the last SNA, we called out military units and they're very willing to support us," Pabon said. The official stated that 20 engagements of the Department of the Interior and General Services (DENR), including contracted workers and civil society groups, had been killed since 2010. Recently, he said, he received a report that three DENR personnel were abducted in Agusan del Sur but were released.

"After hours of negotiation," Pabon recommended that it should be a military operation rather than law enforcement. The head of the Philippines is already a member of the anti-illegal logging task force, but he's the head agency. He said that he will be the head.

Pabon said the DENR had been making progress in reducing the number of illegal logging "hot spots" in the country, from a high of 277 sites in only 28, now mostly concentrated in the Cagayan and Davao regions. But much more needs to be done, he said.

Sethbacks for prosecution

PANRANGA REF Glavin Magapal-Arroyo scored a major legal victory when she was allowed to post bail by the Third City Regional Trial Court for the vote-rigging case filed against her in connection with the 2007 senatorial election. Third City Judge Jesus Magapal awarded the temporary release of the former President on bail of P1 million, saying that while electoral sabotage was a considerable offense, the evidence presented against her was weak. Magapal said the testimony of former Magapal-owned provincial administrator Sorio Luna that he had witnessed Arroyo ordering the then Magapal-owned province, Antipala Arroyo, to produce a 1201 vote in the province in favor of her adversary's now presidential challenger was "vague" with doubt. Magapal said that while the Commission on Elections and Department of Justice could file a motion for reconsideration, this would not stop the grant of bail. Arroyo's camp lost no time in producing the bail money. She thereafter left the presidential case at Veterans Memorial Medical Center, where she had been detained since November, and proceeded to her home in La Vela, Quezon City, with bag and baggage, as though owner of a long reprieve.

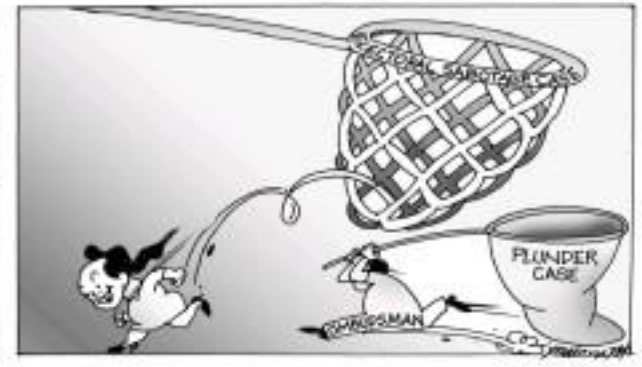

There had been signs that the prosecution was having trouble with the election sabotage case, especially after Luna, whom the prosecution had treated as its star witness, suddenly disappeared, so that Governor Cheri Davis Brilleman and the DOJ had to seek the wife's presence. When he surfaced, Luna did not insist on the witness stand. It was only a matter of time for the defense to draw his testimony and make him admit that he had no personal knowledge of the poll fraud in Magapal.

While representing reports that the Third City Court would grant Arroyo's bail request, Sen. Francis Iñaciano said he was actually more surprised that only one electoral sabotage case had been formally lodged against the former President. But judging by the prosecution's poor performance in advancing the case at hand and fighting Arroyo's bail request, the filing of more electoral charges against her would hardly inspire public confidence. The prosecution should do its job properly and make the present case against Arroyo stick. It should do that if only because it was the filing of this charge last year that legally stopped her from leaving the country—in spite of domestic threats, home by an anti-bribe and misled into the airport to a wheelchair—purportedly to seek treatment abroad for her medical condition.

In Arroyo again at risk of working "administrative business" when she is in the Third City. She and her camp-filings know that the law has put on the field against her as a result of the plunder charge filed against her at the Sandiganbayan last July 16 by the Office of the Ombudsman. This case is in connection with the alleged use of P360 million in Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office funds for "charities" expenses in the last two and a half years of her term.

But if Luna's poor testimony is any indication, then the prosecution in the current and planned cases against Arroyo may be headed for more trouble. Luna's disappearance and sudden reluctance to testify suggested not only lack of interest in a prosecution matter but also that the former provincial administrator of Magapal had doubts about the efficiency of the government's witness protection program. Indeed, the incidence of extrajudicial killings and forced disappearances remains high. In fact, in the multiple murder case involving the 2009 Magapal-owned province, an alarming number of witnesses for the prosecution have been found murdered or have disappeared into thin air. Up to now, even with a new administration, and a new government, in place, the long area of the Magapal-owned family that enjoyed a close relationship with Arroyo appears to be superior to the rest of the law.

Considering that attacks in the Magapal-owned province and electoral sabotage cases, the grave question is whether the prosecution can sufficiently impress its witnesses in the matter of their safety and protection, so that they will provide corroborative testimony willingly and properly—in short, deliver the legal goods against Arroyo and her associates, and emerge with life and limb intact. While Arroyo may remain a flight risk, the greater concern is the risk faced by the prosecution witnesses.

The practice doesn't only diminish the vehicle driver's ability to brake for a lead, but it also puts those at risk of getting lost, like what happened to Fernán.

Whole drink feeding has become a major livestock activity and income-source of Galik, a hamlet, close to the capital, with a population of about 26,000 (based on the 2000 census).

But the practice has long been opposed by Ann and Lamar's researchers because it disrupts the white stork's natural feeding behavior.

While experts fret over the increase in the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Environment and Natural Resources, Ana said scientists studying whale sharks in the Philippines have concerns.

Wife of disgraced China Politburo member charged with murder

BEIJING—China will try Gu Xiaoli, the wife of disgraced Politburo member Gu Jigang, on charges of murdering a British man, state media said on Thursday in the latest step in a scandal that has rocked the government in Beijing and could bring Gu to the death penalty.

The extensive dismissal of Gu from his position as Communist Party's housing minister in mid-2014, followed by his removal from the Politburo and (eventually) exile from Beijing, will be prevented by an allegedly powerful businessman said officials had sent some "evidence of economic interests," said the official Xinhua news agency.

"The facts of the two deaths clearly show an abuse of power and influence in political and administrative," said the Xinhua report summarizing the indictment. "Therefore, the two defendants should be charged with transgressions."

Gu and Zhang will face similar charges, officials say. Gu, 59, was charged with the speeding motorcade in the southwest where British businessman Guo and his wife (Guo's wife) died in a hit-and-run in November.

He has not been named as a suspect in the motorcade case, but he is reportedly under investigation by party authorities and could also have faced a lawsuit.

Political observers have said it differs to bring a unified state machine. The dismissal of Gu would affect the Communist Party's leadership and the leadership changes will be decided at the upcoming congress.

The 60-year-old party chief of Chongqing, Guo, was dismissed, was widely seen as planning for a spot in the new leadership and failed by the would-be right to fight for a higher position.

mean they're not there."

British man was given a time for his trial, but then, Chongqing, a lawyer who had been employed by Gu's family, told Reuters that he had not been able to start on Aug. 7 or 8. Gu's party's own lawyer said he was in Gu's house, and Gu said Zhang would face the death penalty.

In London, the British Foreign Office responded to news of the indictment by saying it was glad the investigation was continuing.

"The details of this ongoing investigation are a matter for the Chinese authorities," it added in a statement.

"However, we are glad to see that the Chinese authorities are continuing with the investigation into the death of this British man. We are dedicated to seeking justice for him and his family and we will be following developments closely," it added.

The indictment came shortly after Guo's dismissal from his position as Communist Party's housing minister in the case. Guo's own dismissal last month in Guangdong at the behest of Beijing because of his suspected business links to Gu.

Gu and his wife have not been publicly addressed the accusations against them since. Gu was named then in Chongqing post in which Reuters

Olympics: Bad form may bound Javier foe

By Ted S. Montano

LONDON — It's got a moment in which to advance in the knockout stages, but Mark Javier is not off.

The country's status hope in archery at these London Olympics is hoping that his bow is in the first round of the men's 70-meter individual competition.

— Javier finished No. 1 in the 2009 World Archery Cup, the 2010 Asian Archery Cup, and the 2010 Asian Archery Cup.

He finished in every good but he's struggling. Javier is in 10th place in his 70-meter individual competition.

"I want to think that he's not used to putting that bow away (30%) in competition,"

Javier, who is trying to rebound from a disastrous first round finish in the 2010 Asian Archery Cup, says when he played the bow in his 70-meter opponent only in the last two years, said the fastest in the knockout stages often in a home in Japan.

The top 64 archers are joined for the match play, called the Olympic Round, in which the No. 1 qualifier has the No. 64, No. 2 has the 63, and so on.

The archers play matches out of 5 sets of 3 arrows. The winner of each set—the archer who gets the highest number of points—gets 2 set points. If the set is tied, each participant gets 1 set point. The archer who gets the highest number of set points, not the score of the arrows, wins the match.

"It's a new Olympic format and gives everyone an even chance of winning an upset," said Javier, who made it to the quarter-finals in the 2008 Beijing Olympics.

qualifying tournament in Ulaanbaatar.

Javier and Rachelle Anne Cabral, who was still competing in the women's individual event at previous Friday, were the only two archers who were not a new training regimen ordered by their former coach, Henry Lee-Sum.

"My score 64-65 today is probably my average," said Javier. "The real competition starts in the match play because of the new scoring system."

ERC approves rates for renewable energy

Solar firms unhappy with P9.68/kWh

By Amy B. Rame

THE ENERGY Regulatory Commission issued yesterday the much-awaited feed-in-tariff (FIT) rates for four renewable energy resources, eliciting a mix of relief and disappointment among local energy developers.

In a statement, the ERC said it approved a FIT rate of P9.68 a kilowatt-hour for solar, P8.33 a kWh for wind, P6.40 a kWh for biomass and P5.36 a kWh for hydroelectric power. The commission, however, directed filing the FIT rates by October 2014 and Energy Commission (ERC) Executive Order for further study and data gathering.

The issuance of the FIT rates has been deemed crucial in boosting the local renewable energy industry as this would provide developers an incentive with the assurance of fixed returns for their power projects over the next 20 years.

However, the approved FIT rates were much lower than what was petitioned for by the National Renewable Energy Board in May last year, which then sought a P17.95-a/kWh rate for solar, P10.37 for wind, P7.40 for biomass, and P5.33 for hydroelectricity.

"The ERC (Board) lowered the FIT (rates) to cushion the impact of implementing the FIT incentives mechanism under the Renewable Energy Act as electricity rates will still be being sufficient enough to attract new investments in renewable energy. This is within the call of regulated ERC executive director Francis Tabares-Añon.

He added that the approved FIT rates would be subjected to a review and cost-benefit analysis as it will be increased or decreased by the ERC after the initial three-year implementation of these rates. The approved FIT rates, however, will not be applicable for projects that will be put up during the first three years of implementation.

The Department of Energy, for its part, has expressed appreciation to the ERC for setting the FIT rates at the current position.

"We are fully aware of the various costs and challenges of the commission in reaching a balanced rate to be able to serve the needs of all stakeholders regarding the rates. We are thankful for their effort and we hope that all other stakeholders continue to cooperate with us to ensure that we can sustain a robust and sustainable power sector due to investments in renewable energy," the ERC said in a statement issued yesterday.

The issuance also brought relief to some local renewable energy developers who have been putting off their projects while they await the final rates.

Metro Manila growth slowed in '11, says NSCB

By Arac R. Rios

NSCB's Manila economic growth slowed last year while Cagayan de Oro had the most rapid economic growth among all regions in the country, according to a report by the National Statistical Commission Board (NSCB).

The National Capital Region's economy grew by just 3.3 percent in 2011, slower than the 7.6 percent recorded in 2010 as dips were reported in all sectors, with the most notable deceleration in the industry sector.

However, NCR still made up the bulk of the country's 5.4 percent growth last year, accounting for 1.3 percentage point and reversing the highest gross regional domestic product (GRDP) per capita at P179,064 in 2011, up from P171,949 in 2010.

Manila's GRDP per capita was almost three times the national GRDP per capita of P52,982, the NSCB said.

Cagayan's economic growth, meanwhile, was the fastest at the 17 percent in 2011, from 9.4 percent in 2010.

"The region's impressive growth was helped by the 9.7 percent expansion of its services sector and the rebound of its agriculture, housing, heavy and light manufacturing growth of 3.4 percent in 2011 from a decline of 5.4 percent in 2010," the NSCB said.

Other regions that recorded faster growth in 2011 were Central Visayas (7.9 percent), Central Luzon (5.3 percent), Western Visayas (3.5 percent) and Ilocos (3.4 percent).

Meanwhile, economic growth in Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao slowed last year to 1 percent from 2.3 percent in 2010.

Of the five regions, economists that recorded sustained growth in 2011, Cagayan topped the league with a growth of 1.3 percent in 2011 from a growth of 0.9 percent in 2010. Next is Cagayan (9.6 percent from 7.4 percent), followed by Ilocos (9.4 percent from 2 percent). Western Visayas (7.3 percent from 3.5 percent), and Mindanao (2.5 percent from 1.1 percent).

Cebu, on the other hand, posted the most significant slowdown in 2.6 percent in 2011 from 11.1 percent in 2010.

8 trends to affect housing purchases

By Thea R. Salazar

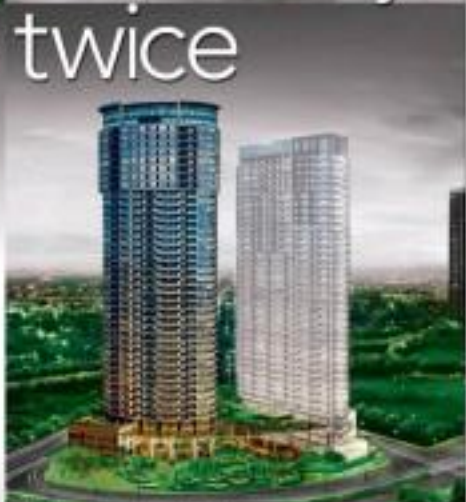

BUYERS MAKE risks in home projects. Many factors—economic, social, cultural, and even weather—drive the market. But what if the market is driven by the future? What obstacles will affect the real estate purchases of Filipinos? Here are 8 trends to look out for to determine the real estate forecast.

1. Overseas Filipino remittances rise as a global trend. In countries like the U.S., Canada, Australia, and the U.K., remittances from overseas Filipinos are on the rise. This is due to the increasing number of Filipinos working abroad, and the rising cost of living in the Philippines. This trend is expected to continue in the future, as more Filipinos are expected to work abroad.

AFTER THE FLOOD

What to do after a watery encounter

By Jason K. Ng

THE MOST important rule when it comes to floods is to avoid them if you can. But it's not always possible, given that floods of biblical proportions regularly turn our roads into rivers. There are times when you can't turn back, or are forced to cross through waters. If your faithful car makes it through, there are several areas you have to watch out for, to make sure it functions properly and conclusively.

Engine

The most critical part of the car is the engine and related components. After going through a flood, stop at a safe place. Check that components such as the radiator fans are still functioning. Make sure that water has not entered the fuel tank or the car's computer or ECU. If water has reached these areas, dry them thoroughly as soon as possible.

If moving water has splashed around the engine bay, an overheat could be a dangerous service station is a good way to inspect the pump. Make sure the parts such as the fan belt and ECU are properly covered before the engine is started. Check the dipstick for the engine oil and transmission fluid. If you see water droplets at the end of either dipstick, you must change the oil and fluid and there is soon as possible. If you do not the engine drops in water as it's safe to do so and have the car towed or pushed to a service bay then to avoid damaging the engine and other components.

Brakes

After going through a flood, stop at a safe place. Check that components such as the radiator fans are still functioning. Make sure that water has not entered the fuel tank or the car's computer or ECU. If water has reached these areas, dry them thoroughly as soon as possible. Check the dipstick for the engine oil and transmission fluid. If you see water droplets at the end of either dipstick, you must change the oil and fluid and there is soon as possible. If you do not the engine drops in water as it's safe to do so and have the car towed or pushed to a service bay then to avoid damaging the engine and other components.

Interior

Carpeters are the most vulnerable part of a car that remains through flood, but probably if the rubber plugs in the floor have been compromised. Dry the carpet and have it washed, but the mold and other stuffy parts of flood water clinging to the carpet. But can probably wash up some of the water at home, but unless you have an industrial-type vacuum cleaner at home, leaving it alone in a detailing shop to have the carpet deep-cleaned.

Underhoods

nents such as the radiator fans are still functioning. Make sure that water has not entered the fuel tank or the car's computer or ECU. Toyota wrests back No.1 spot in global car sales

TOYOTA Motor Corp. regained the lead in global car sales over General Motors Co. in the first half, with Volkswagen AG poised to move past GM and push the U.S. automaker into third place for the full year.

The biggest question is how soon the German auto giant also will pass Toyota and secure the global sales crown—an indication that VW management has targeted the 2015 as part of the company's so-called "strategic 30."

VW, in a cautious statement released Thursday, said, "The Volkswagen Group is right on track for 2015, but has not crossed the finish line yet. For us, quality is always, period, our top priority. We don't want to be the biggest, but rather the best and most sustainable automaker in the world. For us, environmental friendliness and sustainable business are as important as safety, reliability and profitability." It still has to overcome past a resurgence Toyota, which has rebounded sharply from the effects of last year's earthquake and tsunami in Japan. Toyota in February said it expects to sell a record 5.38 million vehicles globally in 2012, downing the old mark of 5.37 million in 2007.

Toyota had held the global sales crown from 2009 through 2011, before the tsunami disaster in Japan disrupted its lead year to third place, behind GM and VW.

"We have recovered greatly from the earthquake and tsunami," said Andre Morero, a spokesman for New York-based Toyota North America. "The disaster has been a source of adversity and challenges, but it is up to a global team." Toyota said to sell 5.37 million vehicles.

In THIS April 20, 2012 photo, Toyota cars, including the Venza (center) are on display at the Beijing International Auto Exhibition in Beijing last April. Toyota announced recently it sold 4.47 million vehicles globally for the first six months of this year, a resurgence that could see the Japanese automaker regain its status as the world's top automaker from General Motors Co. AP worldwide in the first six months, a rebounded increase from the 3.72 million it sold last year, when all Japanese automakers were reeling from the earthquake's aftermath.

General sold 4.47 million vehicles in the first half, up 1.03 percent from a 3.4 million the previous year. GM's global performance was down by record five half sales in China, which now accounts for more than 20 percent of the automaker's worldwide total. The US market, where GM's sales are growing at a much slower pace, accounts for only 28 percent of the company's total sales.

GM spokesman James Cato on Wednesday said, "We continue to grow our sales and share in China. We are in the early days of the most aggressive roll-out of new products in our history which will help us gain our old advantage in the US and China and grow profitably around the world." "VW is a mid-year company report released Thursday and its first half sales totaled 4.64 million, up 12.4 percent from 4.13 million last year. But the figures also indicate, which is recently added spots car maker shares in a diversified brand portfolio that includes luxury truck makers Mercedes and Scania, rounded a cost of revenue.

"Underneath the Volkswagen Group developed very well in the first half of the year," spokesman Alexander Haegele said earlier this month. But due to its expansion plans for Europe, the American situation, particularly in Germany for sales, remains weak and difficult. "Haegele added, "We remain on track and are meeting the second half goal for year, which will be achieved more challenging, with confidence." It remained here on the US market, where VW's long-range plan to boost global sales to more than 15 million vehicles in 2015, with the German company contributing at least 10 percent of that volume.

From US, under government's scrutiny with General Motors, Volkswagen-based R.L. Phil, said VW's management "has been very aggressive, with the US playing a significant role in their global growth strategy. They have become more competitive in pricing here, and we expect their sales and share will continue to rise." BY THE WAY

Five useful features in the new Honda CR-V

1 Spacious, ergonomic cockpit. There's plenty of room to stretch in the CR-V's spacious cabin, both in the front and rear seating rows. The driver gets a newly designed cockpit, with all controls easy to view and operate. The multi-information LCD is mounted high on the dashboard, allowing easy viewing of the trip computer and audio system.

The 2012 Honda CR-V reinforces the model's position as the most spacious, most comfortable, and most refined in its class. After a week of driving the car, we were all finding clever touches throughout the cabin, giving evidence that the CR-V is the most considerate and convenient car in any category. Here are five features we came to appreciate:

5 As an SUV, it's important that the CR-V provides ample loading room in its spacious cargo area. The CR-V offers this room by having the handles to fold the seats within the loading space, easily where you'll reach for them. Then the seats fold flat to give you the most maximum storage capacity of 65 cubic feet. The result is a huge loading bay with a side-mounted 2007 lb. of space.

Jason Jay

2 Backup camera. The LCD display doubles as a camera for the backup camera. Backing up into a parking space is made much easier, even with passengers in the back and a full load of cargo.

3 From business to backcountry drivers may disagree, but it's a useful feature for the last economic. It's the opposite of a "sport" feature, the from mode dampens acceleration response, modifies the transmission settings, and even adjusts the air-conditioning all to focus fuel economy. Even with the latest model, the CR-V's 2.4L engine provides ample torque for climbing and overtaking.

4 Conversation mirror. When conversing with the kids in the back seat, the driver has to turn his head or re-orient the back-view mirror, another option may not be. But the CR-V's conversation mirror allows the driver to see everyone inside the cabin without needing the main rear-view mirror. Grip tape with the conversation mirror—the steering angle appears reversed, so it's designed for a right-hand-drive layout.

Economic outlook

The Philippines economy's positive outlook was reinforced by a credit rating upgrade from Moody's Baa1 to Baa2 from Baa1. This rating reflects the gradual easing of fiscal conservatism amidst global economic uncertainty. Strong development and outlook. However, there is a risk growth is supported by domestic consumption and the exportation of services in support of performance this year. It also indicates that the country's GDP will continue to be in the top 10 of the world's GDP.

The AVID notes the second semester, an exportation of services in support of performance this year. It also indicates that the country's GDP will continue to be in the top 10 of the world's GDP.

Filipino hospitality makes Boracay hotel one of the world's best

It's official: Discovery Shores Boracay Island is Asia's Best Hotel Spa, and no. 5 among the world's 100 best hotels—thanks to the renowned Pinoy brand of service.

By Anna A. Jambon

WALKING up into the Filipino's embrace of hospitality, past an international standard to it, and allow the Filipinos to do their thing, you get a unique signature known the world over.

For Discovery Shores Boracay Island, it's the personal, luxury service that got them the year's No. 5 spot as Asia's Best Hotel Spa, and ranked them No. 5 on the list of Top 100 Hotels in the World. And the just made them the only Filipino company in the Top 100 Hotels in the World.

"The Filipino brand has achieved, service is not a new thing. It's something that has always been with us," declared Lando Tronera, resident manager of Discovery Shores Boracay Island.

We all know that culture—which we carry the best before our eyes, when we share that bottle of scotch with us, we're here serving for special occasions, when we even give up our beds if they can't find a suitable room to use, indeed, Filipino's never desire to maintain and please guests can sometimes border on the uncomfortable. But, for a moment as it is, well, we're appreciating guests.

The 17th annual award given by the UK-based magazine Travel + Leisure (T+L), read by readers worldwide, is one of the most respected and prestigious awards in the industry. It also ranked Discovery no. 1 as the World's Best Island, including Boracay, Green from the island's spot. The winner's name announced on the morning morning television show "Today" on ABC.

Discovery Shores Boracay Island has been consistently on the list of T+L's World's Best Awards for five years now, each year ranking higher than the last. The no. 1 citation, though, and Tronera, came in a surprise.

"It's a unique experience. We are so close and personalized. Saturday is about the little things. What do you want your vacation to be like? You give us three days of your lives. If we can make a difference,

"The size of Fold Paper makes it ideal for putting in your back pocket. It is not too thick for back pockets but the papers are thick enough to hold," says Jasper Ong of studio.ph. The pocket notebooks measure 2 1/4 x 3 1/4 inches and come in each of these:

Media for growth

Field Notes began production in 2008 when former music-businessman Aaron Drapkin decided to make a modern-day version by hand of simple pocket-sized zine used by Midwestern

It has then developed a significant, almost rule-like following, with runners holding signs in anticipation of the periodic release of limited-edition field shoes.

In the Philippines, the product was recently introduced by Studiograph, which also sells signed books, linens, and first-edition books, hand-to-hand board games and specialty merchandise.

"While there are a lot of nonchicks in the market, some people may want something special. We cater to those who go against the mainstream and want to go to extremes when they travel," shares Day.

I MHOFF is a bibliophile but I enjoy a great story. The over a decade, U.S. Rowling's boy wonder captured everyone. She introduced us to a fantasy world of magic and wizardry, where good triumphs over evil. We welcomed Harry Potter into our imagination. Though I never considered myself a fan, I found reliving the story quite a treat when I visited the Orlando theme park and their studios in London with other Harry Potter landmarks.

After an hour, the gnawing balls and the journey he gives. A virtual reality ride unique to Portofino again you around, stimulating brown light. It's a special experience not to be missed.

If you're staying the entire day, make sure you go back at dusk. The evening stroll is hypnotic. (Suggestion #5: A Woolly Wonders show highlighting the castle would be extremely awesome.)

Whistles and giggles, floating eyes that showed their adoration, danced around town, although the park was much less the bus-tragic mass it is compared, it is like a postcard from Disney Alley. The main street was lined with familiar shops—Honey Dukes, Spinnakerz, Lady Cuddlers, in some a row. The three Broomsticks served twisted grub and frozen beer. The "Beer" is marketed, honey bismarck (dressed with specialty cream) for the park—drink liquidated amount, popcorn, with ice. If you get the second prize, you can go home.

Speaking of schedules, you need to be prepared to spend some serious dough, because the same is Cervati's Glenview's shop, where he guides students in training as they choose their music, or they want. It is connected to Cervati's & Stingher's, a music store where all your learning are up for grabs, including Gary's Flute. (Suggestion #2: If you sell magic lessons for $100, make sure they're fun and easy.)

The park has a couple of out-of-place remnants from the more attractive to the forbidden: Journey to Hypogean's Castle. Walking there can be delicious but the castle is
